AMERICAN APPLIED EDUCATION

This makes science itself the ultimate goal and encourages competition between states to attract the best students through education systems, multiple advantages and the power of the universities themselves. Basic education is compulsory in America, reducing ignorance and increasing the use of Science in the service of the country.

Vocational training for adults and further distance education programmes are also available.

The success of American education is represented by the application of the same science and its renewal in line with the need of society through the state, where each state determines its system and existence through its science and students, and this is the secret of the success of American education.

THE FUTURE OF DISTANCE LEARNING

After mutations Technology and the availability of communication between all individuals easily We use the latest systems, clear recording and continuous interaction, It's got a return on education.

So we produced the distance learning system.

We were pioneers in America for this system in the 1990s and with the introduction of the internet distance learning methods became more abundant. Interactive distance learning is a Trend now, especially under Corona

we kept up with the latest trend in education.

The technical revolution has made learning easier than before and with Washington learn and get an international certificate

EFFECTIVE SELF-STUDY

Self-study has become a more popular way to engage students in what they learn at the University

Students have access to many resources so that learning can now take place anywhere, anytime - not just on campus, and the University's role is to teach you the rules of research

Self-study is a learning method in which students direct their own study outside the classroom and without direct supervision.

And because the students are able to control what (and how) they learn

So it can be a self-study method is very valuable for many students to gain information and real learning.

This is a modern educational system that philosophers have long used to think and try to solve problems and define them

At USA University of Washington, we encourage this approach because it brings greater academic results and deeper different perspectives, allowing for freedom of thought and learning success.

Study from your country and graduate from the most prestigious universities and get a distinguished degree
